FIG. 44A2

The Dilemma in Today's E-Commerce
Brand Marketing Communications Environment

FIG. 44A3

Every day, consumers search for products and services that will satisfy their needs and desires.

FIG. 44B1

During the search, they are confronted with decisions about which brand of a products or services they should purchase.

FIG. 44B2

Although shopping online eliminates the need for people to travel from store to store, the Internet hasn't made buying decisions any easier for the consumer.

If anything, it is harder for consumers who don't already know which brand they want to purchase.

One reason is that online, products are not physically available to consumers to experience

Thus creates an increased demand for brand-related information prior to purchase decisions.

eCommerce sites typically bombard consumers with every possible brand of a product or service they can purchase.

(insert screen shot of eCommerce site crowded with brands)

But when consumers search for information that will help them sift through all of this information and decide which brand to buy, useful brand building information is not available.

FIG. 44C2

Brand building information intended to inform and entice the consumer is often scattered throughout the World Wide Web.

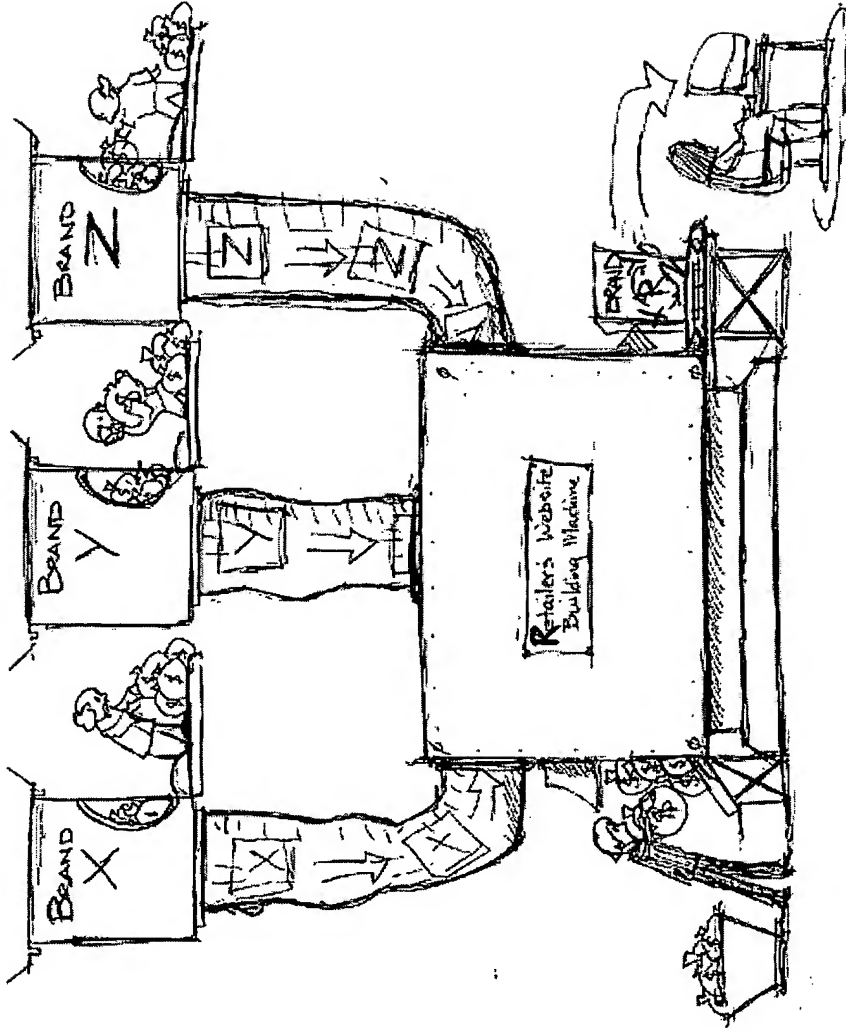

FIG. 44C3

Consumers typically shop for Brands through eCommerce sites rather than directly from the Vendor. These sites usually decide the arrangement and placement of brand information a consumer will encounter on the site.

At best, the consumer gets only product features -- a one-dimensional view of the brand that does little to build an attachment in the mind of the consumer.

With so many brands being funneled through one site in this limited way, not only do brands begin to blur together in the consumer's mind, but the brands compete with the e-tailer's own brand image as well.

FIG. 44D2

When the consumer is trying to make a buying decision, valuable brand building Information is unavailable at strategic places such as the Checkout Process.

FIG. 44D3

Too often, this lack of valuable brand building information leads to abandoned shopping carts while consumers wander the Internet search for the decision-making brand information.

FIG. 44 D4

Consumers may even find a brand's own Website difficult to navigate when they need to quickly locate promotional and other desired information.

FIG. 44D5

The current methods which brand managers use to communicate brand building information on the Web are also not reaching the consumer.

FIG. 44 E1

Brand managers currently use banner and pop-up ads and promos. These rarely succeed in building accurate brand images in the minds of consumers . . .

FIG. 44E2

Brand managers currently favor banner and pop-up ads
and promos. These ads
rarely succeed in building accurate brand images in the minds of consumers, or foster purchase intent ...

FIG. 44E3

...because they create a war-like atmosphere on the consumer's desktop with Brand Managers and Advertising and Promotional Agents all battling for the consumer's attention and valuable screen space.

FIG. 44E4

The battle has intensified recently after ads and promos began using technology that makes it harder for consumer to turn them off.

FIG. 44E5

These online ads and promos
have alienated consumers from the brands they represent, and from the entire Internet experience.

(Stats/ study referenced here)

FIG. 44E6

Ultimately, consumers fail to form the brand image intended by the brand management team.

Sometimes, consumers may even form radically different impressions of the brand in their minds.

FIG. 44E7

And when a brand's image deteriorates in the mind of the consumer, it can lead to reduced levels of customer patronage and retention and have consequences throughout the supply chain.

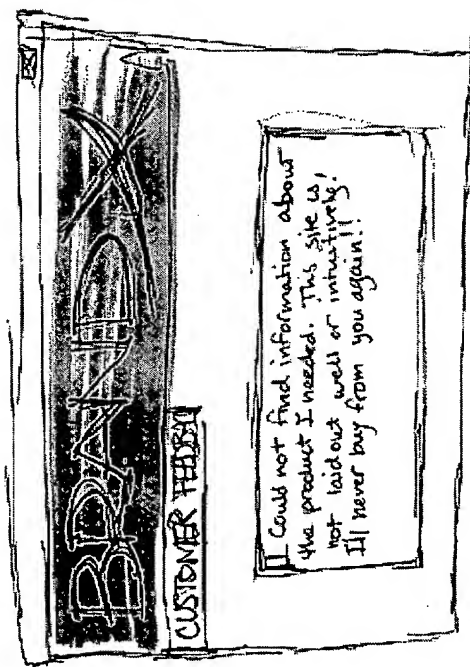

FIG. 44F1

Premium prices
cannot be charged for brands that do
not create strong consumer value.

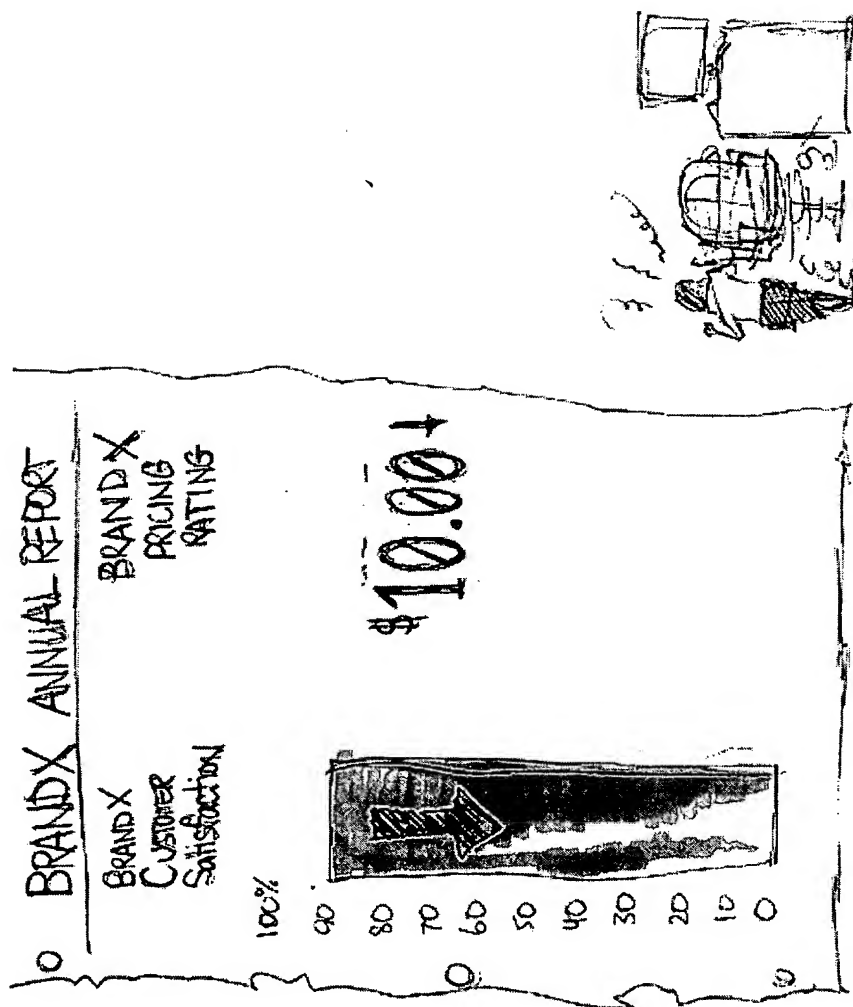

FIG. 44F2

Distribution and trading partners are less likely to promote brands which have weakened in the marketplace.

FIG. 44F3

The burden of brand marketing communications remains with traditional media tools such as television, radio, and print...

... and brand managers do not leverage the tremendous potential of the Internet to interact with consumers and build their brands and thus their businesses.

FIG. 44 F4

Despite so many frustrating
and annoying online
shopping experiences,
consumers still want to shop
online. (stat/study reference)

But they want changes in the e-commerce marketplace.

FIG. 44 G1

If brand managers hope to attract new customers and build stronger brands online, they need to communicate differently with consumers online, and lead the industry in a new direction.

FIG. 44G2

Brand managers need a new,
far more efficient and effective way of delivering their brand building information to the consumer.

Brandkey Create™ Subsystem employs the latest advances in cognitive science and learning theory to enable brand managers and their team members to simply create and deploy multi-level interactive audio-visual models of product brands represented in the Brand Knowledge Networks.

These Brand Knowledge Networks are constructed upon a network of brand-building information links located at the nodes in the Brand Knowledge Network. Each node in the Network can be encoded with brand-identifying graphics and audio clips selected by the brand manager's team and will build and reinforce the Brand Image intended by the brand management team.

By bolstering the intended Brand Image associated with each brand entity registered with the Brandkey Systems™ Network, brand management teams can effectively combat the forces of brand-related confusion, erosion and dilution created by marketplace clutter.

The results of delivering Brand Knowledge Networks to consumers at Internet-based touchpoints before, during and after purchases, are:

- (1) consumers learn about and remember what is relevant and important about the particular brand entities represented by the delivered Brand Knowledge Network;
- (2) brand managers build stronger, more powerful brands in the minds and hearts of consumers; and
- (3) stronger, more powerful brands increase the level of influence that brand manager's have along the manufacturer's distribution channels.

Customer Stories

My husband has been using his hot leather machine for over two years, since I got it for him for Father's Day a few years ago.

When the first one "died", he was most upset, so I sent it back since it was still under warranty and received a new one free of charge. It is still going strong.

Thank you for your excellent customer service, and I recommend your products to all my family and friends. Keep up the good work.
